

PRESS RELEASE – FOR IMMEDIATE DISTRIBUTION

Education empowers and motivates people into action. And it inspires people to dream, as it builds hope of something altogether better in life, relationships and careers. This young entrepreneur demonstrates a passion and determination to help his students become successful graduates, and in doing so, their dreams become reality.

Every year, the Smart Business Awards receives hundreds of entries from business owners and managers in any one of its three major Awards of Service Excellence, Employer of Choice, as well as the Women in Business Awards. And with each passing year, the calibre of its Award Nominees grows to match what these Awards aim to do – recognise and honour exemplary performance in service, diversity, leadership and engagement for small and medium-sized businesses.

Today, it's about the achievements of Daniel Hinh and his team at Lore Tuition. Lore Tuition has demonstrated an excellent understanding of their customer's needs, which has rewarded them, and their business with a brand that's built on a solid reputation for quality.

Lore Tuition has also established itself as an industry leader. Like so many of our Award Finalists and Winners, they understand that quality in service and team engagement is the key driver for their performance, and ultimately their success. And in connecting proactively and effectively with customers, trade suppliers and associates, good businesses have the potential to become great businesses.

Apart from producing a great result on paper, Company Director Daniel Hinh successfully demonstrated a thorough understanding of his market, which will secure him recognition for his efforts, increased productivity, and long-term sustainability, which he has not only earned but also deserves.

The Smart Business Awards is a nationally recognised and self-funded business Awards Program managed by the Business Owners And Managers Association (BOMA) since 2006.
